PRESS RELEASE

CLEVELAND MUSEUM OF ART OFFERS SPECIAL FAMILY PROGRAM ON SATURDAY, JUNE 8

Creative Company, a special family program scheduled at The Cleveland Museum of Art on selected Saturdays throughout the year, offers studio classes, gallery walks, and other activities for children six and over accompanied by an adult. On Saturday morning, June 8, Creative Company explores patterns in art and music in a program entitled Repeat After Me.

The schedule is as follows:

- 10:00 to 11:30 a.m. Studio Classes. Participants seek inspiration for their own art projects from the patterns found in art works in one of four Museum collections: African, Egyptian, Oriental, or American Indian.
- Enrollment in each of the four classes is limited to 25 persons.
- 11:00 to 11:30 a.m. Free Gallery Talk. A child's-eye view of pattern in paintings and sculpture in the Museum collection.
- 11:30 a.m. to 12:00 noon Free Music Performance. Pattern Out Loud. To illustrate rhythm in music, Tim Adams and John Kapenakas, graduate students at the Cleveland Institute of Music, will play percussion instruments in their own arrangements of popular melodies.

Participants must register by Friday, May 31, for all activities except the music performance, and each registrant for a studio class must pay a $1.00 materials fee. To register or to get more information, call the Museum's Department of Education at 421-7340, ext. 462.
